

FRANK REPUBLICAN—1914
DAILY PUBLIC LEDGER—1914

MAYSVILLE, KENTUCKY, MONDAY, MAY 11, 1914.

ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

Little drops of water,
In the can of milk,
Bring the milkmaid's daughter
Pretty gowns of silk.

$1.00 Show or 25c at River tonight.

Counsel for Leo Frank, charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, will ask for annulment of the verdict because the convicted man was not in the courtroom when it was rendered.

NOTICE.

Messrs. Frank H. Clark, W. E. Stallcup and W. T. Cummins have been appointed supervisors of taxes by the Board of Council of the City of Maysville for the year 1914, and they will meet in the Council Chamber in said City of Maysville on Thursday, May 14-19th, to examine the assessor's books, and to make any corrections in the assessment they may deem proper.

LET UNCLE SAM
GIVE YOU THE FACTS

Government reports show the steady output of coal during the last few years has made the dealers push for wider markets. We are going to get more trade—your trade—by giving you a greater value for your money. You will never get out of debt unless you buy wisely.

MAYSVILLE COAL CO.

PHONE 142.

Mr. A. N. Huff came down from Huntington, W. Va., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lettie Owens Huff.

Will It Pay Me To Buy a Cream Separator?

Ask yourself this question, Farmers, then drop in the next time you are in town and let us show you the machine, explain it to you, and you will find your answer. This is the season of the year when you most need a Separator, so don't put off coming too long.

MIKE BROWN,

THE
SQUARE DEAL MAN.

Tango dancing on the Emerson tonight.

Mrs. Will Prather who has been receiving treatment for throat trouble at Dr. Holmes' hospital in Cincinnati, has recovered and has returned to her home in Dixon, Miss.

TOBACCO, CORN AND WHEAT FERTILIZER AT JOSEPH H. DODSON'S, Wall St.

Julia, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shea, of East Second street, is confined to her home suffering from an attack of measles.

Wall Paper, Paint, Rugs.

The Hendrickson Paint Co.,
52 W. SECOND ST., AND 204 SUTTON ST.

Tango dancing on the Emerson tonight.

KILLS NEGROES WHO INSULTED
HIS WIFE.

Lexington, Ky., May 9.—Lee Anderson, a white man employed by the county, shot and killed Botes Chenault and Robert Chenault, negro brothers, at the home of the latter in Forest Hill, a Lexington suburb, tonight.

The Chenaults had gone to Anderson's home in the afternoon seeking for work done for Anderson finding him at home spoke in to Mrs. Anderson.

STRAWBERRIES

ds of FRESH VEGETABLES
of Canned goods

SHINGLES! SHINGLES!

We have just received one large CAR LOAD of the VERY BEST WASHINGTON CEDAR. We also have a limited quantity of 18" CYPRESS SHINGLES. These are giving good satisfaction. We have almost all kinds of Roofing, also ROOF PAINTS. When in need of Roofing or Mill Work see us.

The Mason Lumber Co. Inc.

Cor. Second and Limestone Sts. Phone 519. MAYSVILLE, KY.
A. A. McLAUGHLIN. L. N. BEHAN.

LOOK IN OUR WINDOW!

Many Appropriate Suggestions For

MOTHER'S DAY, May 10

J. T. KACKLEY & CO.

Big Dramatic Show at River tonight.

MAYSVILLE TRIMMED NEWPORT
SATURDAY 2 TO 1.

Maysville took an interesting game from the Newport Ohio State Leaguers Saturday at Wiedemann Park, Newport. The score was 2 to 1. Long and Reames engaged in a pitchers' battle.

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—
Newport . . . . . 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1
Maysville . . . . . 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2

Tango dancing on the Emerson tonight.

LATONIA NATIONAL BANK IS CLOSED.

Covington, Ky., May 9.—The First National Bank of Latonia, was closed today by order of a national bank examiner. The capital stock of the bank was given as $20,000 and the estimated deposits of $125,000. Poor loans, according to one of the bank's directors, caused the examiner to close the bank.

WALL PAPER!

Now is the time to do your wall papering and painting. Come in. We can show you just what you need. We have a full line of Wall Papers, Paints, Enamels, Etc. See our line before buying.

CRANE & SHAFER,
PHONE 452. COX BUILDING.

Tonight—The Emerson Floating Theater.

All new designs in Wall Paper and Rugs at HENDRICKSON'S.

MAYSVILLE DEFEATED CHARLESTON 7 TO 1.

Charleston, W. Va., May 10.—Before the biggest crowd of the season Charleston played its most miserable game this afternoon at Beaver Dam Park. Fallon at short contributed two runs to the visitors, while Young's throwing to second helped to add to the Maysville score.

Score by innings:
Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—
Maysville . . . . . 0 1 0 0 2 2 1 0 1—7
Charleston . . . . . 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1
Summary: Two-base hits—Keating, Nutter, 2; Mace, 2; Chapman, Young. First base on balls—Off Linson, 1. Struck out—By Simms, 5; by Linson, 3. Hit by pitcher—Nutter, by Linson. Double plays—Linson, Emery and Badel. Left on bases—Maysville, 4; Charleston, 8. Time—1:40. Umpire—Kuhn.

EMERSON'S "GOLDEN ROD"

Premier Floating Theater Will Present
Great Program at Wharf Tonight.

Tonight at the Maysville river landing Emerson's Floating Theater palace will give a high class exhibition.

Mr. Emerson is well known in Maysville and his word carries a guarantee of a fine program.

This year Mr. Emerson's company is presenting the well-known play, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." This will be the first time that a production of this magnitude was ever presented on a floating theater, and marks the beginning of a new era for show boats.

BUNCH OF BOOTLEGGERS

Captured With the Goods In Old Joint
In Wall Street.

Sam Lyons, Howard Blythe and Major Watson, a trio of Maysville white men were nabbed yesterday morning by Chief Mackey and Policeman Tolle in the second story of the old brick shack on the southwest corner of Front and Wall streets.

They were wholesale bootleggers and had enough red liquor to start a Kansas barroom. In the raid the officers secured four baskets of "Golden Age" bottled in bond whisky, in pints and half pints, suitable to the "slip me one" trade, one barrel of bottled beer, poker chips, dice, etc., and five packs of playing cards.

They were evidently preparing for a busy and enjoyable time this summer. Chief Mackey locked up the goods in his office.

The prisoners are now in the city jail.

Big Dramatic Show at River tonight.

HONOR MEXICAN HEROES.

New York, May 10.—Nation and city paid tribute in silence to the seventeen men who gave their lives in the first move made in the occupation of Vera Cruz by the armed forces of the United States.

KENTUCKY G. A. R. WILL MEET AT BARBOURVILLE.

Barbourville.—The Kentucky Grand Army of the Republic will meet in encampment here June 11 and 12. The John G. Eve Post, of this city, is busy arranging a program and arrangements are being made to care for a large number of visitors, this being the first meeting of the veterans ever held in this section. If necessary, the dormitories of the local colleges will be available for the housing of the guests.

PUFFED RICE
COMPRESSED OATS
OAT MEAL
PUFFED WHEAT
All of the Quaker Brand.
We have them.

DINGER BROS., LEADING RETAILERS,
107 W. SECOND STREET

Harry Thaw's case goes to Supreme Court.

$150,000 FEE FOR LAWYERS.

Louisville.—O'Doherty and Yontz received $150,000 as their fee for representing Ellen Golden Ewald. This is said to be the largest fee of the kind ever known in the State.

WILL ENJOY ELKS HOME EVERY THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

At a recent meeting of the B. P. O. Elks it was decided to allow the wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts of all Elks the use of their lodge and club rooms every Thursday afternoon from 1 to 6 o'clock p. m.

WE HAVE OPENED OUR

SODA FOUNTAIN

and are prepared to serve all kinds of drinks. We have a large room and plenty of chairs and tables. If you do not care to drink Soda Water come in and rest after shopping. You are always welcome.

M. F. WILLIAMS & CO. THE THIRD STREET
DRUGSTORE.

D. HECHINGER & CO.

Maysville's Best Clothing and Shoe Store.

Our 54th Anniversary Sale will only continue until Saturday night, the 16th. "10 Per Cent. Cash" Discount on everything in the house during the entire week.

D. HECHINGER & CO.

Special prepared paint $1.25 per gallon at HENDRICKSON'S.

Dr. Edwin Mathews and family are home after an enjoyable sojourn at Park Lake.

There will be a meeting of the Maysville High School Alumni Association at the High School tonight at 7 p. m. Let all members try and be present, as there is business of importance.

TO MEET TOMORROW AFTERNOON
The Sewing Society of the Central Presbyterian Church will meet with the Misses Lee in Market street Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. 11-2t

Duvetyn, the New Fabric

It has the body and pile of chiffon velvet and makes the smartest kind of coats for wearing over the dainty lingerie gowns. The colors are beautiful shades of blue, rose, reseda, lilac, mastic. While the price is $1 the material is so wide very small yardage is required in this day of "little or nothing" styles in women's wearing apparel. This popular fabric also combines modishly with crepe or voile for suits and dresses. See window display.

NEW YORK BLOUSES

Sheer lovely things designed especially for Summer wear. They are the latest word New York has to say of blouse fashions and show many new and pretty touches. The voile blouses are $1.25. Silk Blouses $1.25 to $6½. Chiffon $5.90 and $6½.

The Rag Rugs

are much prettier than their name implies. They are straight strands bound together with colored cotton, attractive in looks and sure to give excellent service. All prices from small rugs at 75c to room size at $4.95.

Scrim For Curtains

leads in popularity. Nothing to fade, harmonize with any room, inexpensive and always in good taste. Every housekeeper realizes the importance of these points so scrims command a large following and you are sure to find decorative inspiration in a glance at this assortment. 15c, 25c, 35c, 39c yard.

1852

HUNT'S

1914

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING TOMORROW.

The Parent-Teacher Association will hold a meeting Tuesday afternoon at 7 o'clock at the High School and Prof. Earl Chase will be the entertainer.

Miss Alice Lloyd left today for Nashville, Tenn., to visit her mother, Mrs. Ivan Lloyd who has been in that city for some time with her daughter, Mrs. John C. Adamson. Mrs. Lloyd will return home with Miss Alice Wednesday.

SMALL BOY DROWNED.

Clyde Hill, the little three-year-old son of Sam Hill, living on the Salem Pike, was drowned in Lowell Creek, near Catron's old mill last Thursday. He was in search of his father and tumbled into the creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tolle left Sunday afternoon for Cincinnati, called by the death of their son-in-law, Mr. Thomas Kenney. Mr. Kenney visited here last summer and fall and his many friends here learn with sorrow of his death.

LACES, EMBROIDERIES and ALLOVERS

We have an excellent selection of Vals, Shadow Laces and all the newest ideas that are being used on the Spring and Summer Dresses.

SUMMER DRESSES

Just received a big shipment of new dresses that we have marked

$2.98 and $3.98

All sizes.

MILLINERY

One of the busiest spots in our store. Just received a big shipment of fine genuine.

Panama Hats

We sell Panama Hats cheaper than any store in Kentucky, because we import them through our Philadelphia factory.

Compare our $2.98 and $3.98 Panama Hats for ladies and young girls.

OUR REPUTATION

The STC
Est. 1874

NEWS and GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON

Where Infant Death Rate Dropped 50 Per Cent

WASHINGTON.—Miss Julia C. Lathrop of Chicago, head of the children's bureau of the department of labor, has completed a report on baby-saving in New Zealand which was transmitted the other day to Secretary of Labor Wilson. New Zealand was selected for this special study because its infant mortality rate is the lowest of any country in the world. This creditable showing, Miss Lathrop says, is due to the activity of the Society for the Health of Women and Children, whose methods, she says, could be followed with success in this country. In a letter of transmittal, Miss Lathrop says:

"The infant mortality rate of New Zealand has been for some time recognized as the lowest of any country in the world, and it is stated that recent further reductions are due in large measure to the activity of the society."

"As an example of its value, the consul general says that work of the society has reduced infant mortality in Dunedin, a residential city of about 60,000 inhabitants, 50 per cent during five years, from 1907 to 1912."

"Because of the absence of adequate birth and death registers in the United States, the infant death rate of this country as a whole is unknown, but some states tend to show that it is at least twice the rate in New Zealand, which the registrar general of that country reported in 1912 to be 51 per 1,000."

"New Zealand, like certain of our states, is a young and vigorous country with a scattered population and with no large cities, and there is every reason to believe that similar volunteer effort in this country would produce similar results."

"In view of the marked and growing interest in the preservation of infant health in the smaller cities and rural communities of the United States, I believe that the account of the methods of the New Zealand society is especially timely."

"It will be seen that public interest is strongly enlisted in its efforts. Seventy volunteer committees in as many districts maintain the educational and nursing work in connection with the central office, and the government itself assists in various ways."

Taken for Stealing; She Has $1,700 in Her Purse

ON entering one of the big downtown department stores the other day a little, gray-haired woman, wan and wrinkled and poorly dressed, and fully seventy-five years old, stood and gazed about her as if startled at all the magnificence she beheld. She took a few steps forward and then stopped, apparently uncertain which direction to take. She attracted the attention of Detective Messer, and he watched her.

Hesitatingly she approached a counter on which were displayed fancy high-priced shirtwaists. She fingered the finery lovingly, and every now and then glanced around to see if anyone was looking. Messer smiled sympathetically. He was beginning to wish he could afford to turn philanthropic, when suddenly his sympathy was shocked.

Quickly glancing to the right and left, the aged woman fished a $20 shirtwaist from the counter, hastily tucked it beneath her shawl and started for the door. In an instant the officer had his hand on her shoulder and was drawing her aside.

"Put that waist back and then beat it," said he. Then, to the detective's astonishment, the woman produced a purse and revealed $1,700. She drew out the bills and pressed them upon the officer. "Here—take it all," she pleaded. "Take everything, only please let me go."

After being regularly booked at the first precinct station and learning that she would be released on $20 bail, her tears ceased to flow, and instead of pleading she became indignant and commanding. Fishing out a $20 bill she tossed it on the sergeant's desk and then walked away. She forfeited her bail in police court.

Osages Not Bothered by the High Cost of Living

JUDGE JOHN E. SHORT of Oklahoma, who was in Washington recently, gave a little interview about the Osage Indians, which was of great interest. He prefaced the interview with remarks that the commissioner of Indian affairs, Cato Sells, is a godfather to the Indians. He then said of the Osages:

"The high cost of living does not bother the Osages, for money is piling in to them so fast they are unable to spend their interest and royalties, to say nothing of the millions which the government is holding in trust for them. I have just been advised by wire from Pawhuska that in a sale of 12,000 acres for gas and oil leasing purposes only the Osages received a bonus in excess of $500,000, and in addition to this amount these Indians receive a royalty of one-eighth of all the oil produced and a cash price for each gas well. When it is considered that the oil production in the Osage country amounts to 1,600,000 barrels a month and the Indians receive about 15 cents on each barrel produced, this one item alone amounts to $150,000 a month, and, in addition to this, each of the 2,000 members of the tribe has $5,000 on deposit with the government for a rainy day. As the average income for each family is in excess of $2,500 a year, there is no immediate danger of the trust funds being disturbed. In addition to all this, the tribe has 1,500,000 acres of land, considerable of which has already been allotted."

"While some of the Oklahoma Indians have been given a rough deal, Judge Sells is certainly looking after the Osages, and if he has his way he will make farmers out of most of them."

Spread Out His Coat and the Wind Did the Rest

SENATOR WALSH of Montana, possessor of the finest horseshoe mustache in the senate, is a person of singular pertinacity of purpose. Should it occur to him that he had to move a red-hot stove he would move it, his friends say, even if it burned both hands off. The verb "to quit" is not found in his lexicon.

A number of years ago Senator Walsh and C. P. Connolly, now a magazine writer, were young lawyers together in Montana. They determined with some others, to make a bicycle tour through the Yellowstone National park. All went well until, on the return journey to Livingston, Senator Walsh's sprocket chain was broken beyond repair. Now, the Yellowstone valley in its approaches to the town of Livingston, is noted as one of the windiest places on earth. Jim Bridger, who put the Yellowstone on the map, asserted in his time that he had seen the wind there blow the hair off a dog, and none disputed the statement. No one, in fact, disputed any of Jim's assertions, he being a handy man with a gun.

Under these circumstances, Senator Walsh announced that he didn't need the sprocket chain at all to make distance. He said that all he had to do was to sit in the seat, spread his coat and let the wind do the rest.

"And do you know," said Mr. Connolly in telling the story, "after he had done this he still believed in his theory. We had to bind and gag him into a wagon before he would consent to proceed in any other way."

Just the Thing.
Prospective Buyer.

GENERAL VILLA AND HIS GASOLINE CHARGER

General Villa, commander of the constitutionalist army in northern Mexico, has abandoned the horse for the motorcycle. He is here seen mounting his rather unromantic charger, which he rode during the operations against Torreón.

RISE AND FALL OF ROYAL FAMILIES OF CHIHUAHUA

Combination of Whose Members
Caused Mexican Revolt.

TERRAZAS AND CREEL LEAD

Former Began With Small Store, Entered Politics and Accumulated Land Until He Was Worth $100,000,000—Latter Was a Financier.

New York.—The history of the "royal family" of Chihuahua reveals conditions that make a revolution necessary and at the same time furnished an almost melodramatic history of the rise of a popular idol and his fall in the estimation of his one time worshipers until he is now execrated as a villain.

Chihuahua royalty consists of the Terrazas and Creel families, their connections and descendants. Owing to in-termarriages these are practically the same in both families, but as the legitimate descendants of Luis Terrazas, founder of the dynasty, number 130 royalty is not rare. Chihuahua is the largest and wealthiest of the Mexican states, and the conditions here brought about by the royal family have their counterpart in the rest of the republic.

Enrique C. Creel.

"Old Don Luis," as he is called, was born in the city of Chihuahua in 1829, became possessed of a fortune estimated at $100,000,000 and is now in exile, while his son Luis is a prisoner in his own house.

Don Luis held a few acres less than nine millions in this state, or a territory one-third as large as New York state; cattle, horses and sheep in numbers that not even his administrator knew with accuracy, but which can only be numbered satisfactorily by the hundreds of thousands; banks, mines, buildings and what not.

At the death of his father Luis inherited 5,000 pesos and went into business in a small way near the public market place. The fine residence of a son, Juan Terrazas, now occupies the site of the store. With a partner, Amado Porvas, he continued in business through the '50s. Much of the success of the store, which at first was of the type called tienda or "cheap John," was because of the help and shrewdness of Porvas. Porvas when

MINISTER'S KISS WAS TRAGIC

New York Woman Tells Husband and Converter Is Prevented—Alleged Act of Pastor Is Cause.

New York.—Mrs. M.

his former partner became great was made administrator of his affairs.

In the late '50s Terrazas went into politics and in it found his real occupation. He is said to have resembled the late Mark Hanna in his appearance and manner. He soon became jefe politico, then governor, and unflattering stories are told of his manipulation of the mint, for Chihuahua then coined money. And he then began getting together the vast estate of which he was possessed.

In 1866 he was the grand seigneur of the district and on March 25 with his levies drove out the sympathizers of Maximilian. This notable victory enabled President Juarez to make Chihuahua his capital and return from what almost amounted to exile on the northern frontier. He was so delighted that he immediately created Terrazas general. Among other notables who served under Terrazas in this battle was Felix Diaz.

This event marks the highest point that Terrazas reached, not in wealth indeed, but in the estimation of his people. Universally popular, fairly worshiped by the people, he was one of the great men of the country, and oddly enough, was a leader of that popular party of which the Constitutionalist party which has exiled him is the descendant. After this period in 1880 commenced his association with his nephew and son-in-law, Enrique Creel, half Mexican and half gringo, who in the popular estimation is the blacker villain of the two.

Ruben Creel, father of Henry C. Creel, or as he is better known, Enrique C., was American consul here and remained in the country. He and Don Luis married sisters, Pas Cully and Caroline Cully, daughters of a family prominent in this locality and now extremely wealthy. Creel's marriage took place in 1852. The connection between the two families was further strengthened when the younger Creel married one of Terrazas' daughters.

In 1884, after the stormy term of Gen. Manuel Gomez as president of the republic, Diaz was elected constitutionally for the second time, and immediately the centralization of power and the long period of material development of Mexico began. As under the Diaz regime governors of states were practically autocrats in their country. As long as they did not displease the president it was easy for the Terrazas-Creel combination to take advantage of the growth of the country.

They succeeded each other as governor, and while Terrazas' ambition in politics seems to have stopped there Creel became minister to Washington and it was said, desired to be Diaz's successor. But whatever were his political ambitions, they interfered not at all with the process of building up a great fortune. He is reported to have been far from rich when he married the daughter of Terrazas and what his

MAY CURE CRIPPLES

Grafting of Nerves May Accomplish This Result.

London Surgeon Shows Brain Cells Can Be Given Two Separate Functions—Makes Experiments on Foreleg of Dog.

London, England.—The Times reports one result of important nerve grafting experiments recently by Prof. Robert Kennedy of Glasgow, proving conclusively that a brain cell may be taught to perform two separate functions.

Each nerve communicates with a particular set of brain cells which control its activities. It was supposed that these cells were able to perform only the function allotted to them by nature.

Doctor Kennedy made experiments on the foreleg of a dog. He severed all the nerves connecting with the muscles below the joint and then connected all these muscles to the group times," she said, "but in my home it grew into a tragedy."

The witness broke down as she talked, explaining that the incident caused the failure of an aim which she had long been trying to fulfill—the conversion of her husband.

wealth amounts to now is a matter of conjecture merely.

Chihuahua has never been properly surveyed unless the German engineers working for Terrazas surveyed it in its entirety. In fact there are still large areas where it is highly probable that no man with the possible exception of some Indian band has been since the Spanish conquest. This fact, together with the law that there must be definite titles to land, facilitated one means of getting land.

In some cases haciendas were bought and the contiguous lands claimed under the title deed. The possessors of these lands had small chance to prove their claims in court against the accurate surveys of the members of the royal family. Or an even simpler process was to fence in lands and lay claim to them. Here again the able lawyers and actual survey were convincing in court even had the judiciary been uninfluenced, and whatever the facts of the matter were, the people believe so strongly that the courts were not impartial that many of the legal profession have thought it safer to leave the country for the present.

There are also many stories of threats and violence used to remove the possessors from desirable pieces of land, but these are impossible to substantiate satisfactorily at present.

At one time a law, perfectly reasonable on its face, was passed that all titles to land must be registered publicly within a definite time. Land to which the title was not registered became available for public entry. As was to be expected, many of the peon proprietors neglected to do this or never heard of the necessity, and those in authority were in the best position to take advantage of their omissions.

The real downfall of Luis Terrazas and his family came in the latter part of 1913, when the present revolution began to gain strength. Gen. Pancho Villa is the worst foe of royalty in Chihuahua. When the present rebels occupied Chihuahua they seized the Terrazas and their properties and Villa announced that he would restore the land to the peons. Gen. Luis Terrazas fled to El Paso with other prominent citizens of Chihuahua.

Luis Terrazas, Jr.

Villa seized Luis Terrazas, Jr., and held him prisoner in Chihuahua, demanding $500,000 ransom. He threatened to kill the son of the old general if the money wasn't paid.

With his estate confiscated, Gen. Luis Terrazas didn't have money enough to meet Villa's demand. Even with the aid of friends he found it impossible to scrape together enough of his former $100,000,000 to free his son.

He appealed to the United States state department and Secretary Bryan took a hand. He forced Villa to spare Luis Terrazas, Jr., and Bryan's appeal to Carranza got the prisoner his freedom. But "freedom" only means that he can stay in Chihuahua under guard.

Villa has killed many of the Terrazas family agents and relatives. General Terrazas' lawyer was shot to death after he paid $15,000 for his freedom. Gen. Luis Terrazas, now more than four-score, announced recently that he would start a ranch in Texas and try to regain his lost fortune.

of nerves controlling flexion or bending.

The dog was for some time unable to direct or co-ordinate its movements. Gradually, however, about the ninety-third day, this power returned and was regained completely by the one hundred and twenty-third day.

The possible applications of the discovery are wide. For example, the nerves of a withered or useless limb, the function of which has been lost because of some injury to or disease of the brain, if connected to the nerve trunk leading to a healthy part of that organ might again receive and convey stimuli. In that case the degenerated and flabby muscles would again regain power and the infirmity would be cured.

Man 107 Weds Woman 97.

New Orleans.—Marceline Brady, one hundred and seven, married Willis West, ninety-seven. Both are negroes and were slaves when their romance began 75 years ago.

rose from prayer he kissed me on the cheek, afterward saying it would be wise not to tell my husband about it. As a matter of fact, he found out, of course, and a storm followed."

Flashlight Causes Near Panic.

Chicago.—A newspaper photographer, a near panic at the trial of Payne, charged with the murder of Miss Beatrice, caused a flash-

OUT-OF-ORDINARY PEOPLE

WILL PROBE SOCIAL UNREST

The only woman representative on the federal industrial relations commission, which is soon to begin the most complete and thorough probe ever undertaken into existing social unrest, with the view of making recommendations for constructive legislation, is Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of New York, who has for years been engaged in many public and useful activities in the metropolis.

Congress has appropriated $100,000 for the first year's work of the inquiry, recommending at the same time that the commission should lay out a program on a three years' basis and could count on a fund for expenses of $500,000. The chairman of the commission is Frank P. Walsh of Kansas, one of the best equipped men in the country for such work. There are seven other male members of the commission, representing both labor and capital.

Mrs. Harriman has been engaged in what has been termed "uplift" work among the toilers of the metropolis and is at present in Washington, where her influence is being exerted to prevent certain threatened strikes. Before she became a member of the commission she had organized a company to provide ice cream sodas for poor working girls at minimum price, and earlier than that she had converted her country place into a sanitarium for the benefit of weary millionaires.

It is as chairman of the "committee for welfare work of industrial employees" of the women's department of the National Civic federation that Mrs. Harriman has done her greatest service. She has won the respect of trade union leaders and the interest and co-operation of the non-union cotton manufacturers of the South in the improvement of plant and community conditions. She is credited with having brought about the White House conference last July which led to the amendment of the Erdman act and to the arbitration of the demands of the conductors and trainmen.

HAS NO TIME FOR HOBBIES

"I fear I must be very trite," remarked Mrs. Dunne, wife of the governor of Illinois, during her recent visit to Washington, "and say home, my husband and children are all my fads and accomplishments, and certainly the whole of my mission in life. I believe even the most indefatigable of modern women would find scant leisure for hobbies in the care of such a household as is mine. Thirteen children have come to bless our home and of these all lived to be old enough for us to possess a keen sense of loss in their passing away. There are ten now with us, although the oldest boy is married and has set his own roof-tree. He is Edward F., Jr., and there is a chubby little son, Edward F. III, who is, as may be imagined, quite the idol of the family. I do not wish to repeat truisms and obvious facts, but I number myself among those who find the crown of womanhood in rearing large families and governing a home to the satisfaction of all. In these days of complicated interests and of luxurious living, such work can be easily exalted into a vocation. I have never found myself lacking interest in passing affairs through the care of my home and family and I should not rate these cares as either benumbing intellectually or drudgery in the physical sense. To use that favorite phrase, I believe I have had time to grow soul and mind since my marriage."

"Take the parents of a large family such as my husband and I boast and look at the diverse interests brought right into the home circle. Our table is a sort of forum where all topics are discussed and where we that are busy get a bird's-eye view of the passing world. I never have to read news of the sports, for I get every shade of opinion from my sons and every variety of comment on persons and things connected with sports from them. My daughters are active in many ways and bring the outside ozone home. Books, the plays, fashions, charities, church news all come to the home table through my daughters, and there is scarcely a topic in which we do not glean knowledge through these many points of contact with the outer world."

TO COMMAND SHIPS IN PANAMA CANAL

Capt. Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., will be the real boss of the big sluiceway when it is open for commercial shipping in July, and will have entire charge of all the details of putting ships through.

Each vessel entering the canal will be assigned a canal pilot, who will take the ship to an anchorage, which she may not move without mission of Captain Rodman or the port captains, conveyed to the pilot.

As soon as a ship moves toward the canal its wireless and all signal arrangements will be under the control of the canal authority. The engines of a ship will be by the canal officials by means of steel chain and sealing device. Lock will be under the constant watch of a canal guard and an engineer the ship, until after leaving the lock when its removal will be ordered by the canal pilot aboard.

The pilots have been selected by Captain Rodman, and for three months he has been instructing and training them. Since his graduation, in 1880, Captain Rodman spent all but six years of that time at sea. He has been around the world five times and has commanded ships in nearly every big port in the world.

SENATOR SHIELDS' "NERVOUS GOATS"

Senator John K. Shields of Tennessee possesses some specimens of a breed of goats that are the most unique in the animal world. Shields has a 3,000-acre ranch in Granger county, a beautiful home on it and he devotes the place largely to Shetland ponies and Angora goats.

The Angoras he raises for their hair, and this proves a profitable investment, as they can live on wild land on which a horse would starve. The meat, too, is fine, very much like lamb. But the thing on which he prides himself most is that he owns several of what is known as "nervous goats."

This is a breed said by the agricultural department to be peculiar to Tennessee and unknown in any other place. These goats are remarkable for the fact that if any one should get near them and fire off a pistol or even crack a whip sharply the goats instantly fall to the ground, lie on their backs and remain there stiffly with their feet in the air for some time. On this account they are "nervous goats."

Once Governor Frazer to witness the performance, as they are called, he objected to the goats being used in a demonstration.

On this account they are "nervous goats." Looking to the senator, and it's hard enough to demonstrate.

TALES OF GOTHAM AND OTHER CITIES

Peacock Alley Gets Its Annual Spring Cleaning

NEW YORK.—When George W. Boldt of the Waldorf-Astoria decided several years ago that he would put an end to the business of numerous individuals who were fleeing his patrons out of several millions a season, he did things thoroughly. He hired Joe Smith of Scotland Yard, and told him it was worth $25,000 a year to have the famous hostelry cleaned of vermin.

Joe Smith organized a squad of ten men and women, known to Mr. Boldt and himself about the Waldorf, where they circulate in Fifth avenue clothes. Mr. Smith and his squad have just finished their annual spring clean-up.

Kitty Quick, "Lord Harry" Havens, and a third suave gentleman were at the head of the procession of ejected. They were sorely nettled at being prevented from consummating a plot to sell stock in an imaginary gold mine for $10,000.

A week previous one of the Smith women agents, passing herself as a shopper who took tea in the Waldorf frequently, observed Kitty, "Lord Harry" and three others, two women and a man, very active in entertaining a wealthy patron. They had the plot so far along that the victim was about to consult a "lawyer." She satisfied herself that the lawyer the wealthy patron would consult (of his own volition, as he thought) would be a confederate of "Lord Harry," he of the mauve spats and English walking suit and the elegantly gowned Kitty.

Joe went into his office and studied the Waldorf collection of 5,000 photographs. These show faces of confidence persons, hotel thieves and international crooks, and Joe has been 20 years in assembling them. He also looked over the imposing finger-print art gallery of the hotel secret service, consisting largely of interesting duplicates from the police headquarters of the metropolises.

Kitty was there, and so was Harry. A few hours later a captain of waiters removed from the table at which the confederates were dining a set of glasses of which they had just time to take one sip. He used gloves.

The glasses were soon in Joe Smith's studio. They were dusted with a prepared powder and photographed. Joe smiled.

That afternoon Joe, who is a polished gentleman in appearance as well as in reality, strolled up Peacock alley and met Kitty of the $150 Paris hat.

"Madam," said the Scotland Yard man, quietly, "the management would like to know your precise business in this hotel?"

"What have you got on me?" she replied, descending to the vernacular.

"A photograph and two fine sets of finger prints."

Peacock alley had had its annual spring cleaning.

They were sorely nettled at being prevented from consummating a plot to sell stock in an imaginary gold mine for $10,000.

A week previous one of the Smith women agents, passing herself as a shopper who took tea in the Waldorf frequently, observed Kitty, "Lord Harry" and three others, two women and a man, very active in entertaining a wealthy patron. They had the plot so far along that the victim was about to consult a "lawyer." She satisfied herself that the lawyer the wealthy patron would consult (of his own volition, as he thought) would be a confederate of "Lord Harry," he of the mauve spats and English walking suit and the elegantly gowned Kitty.

Joe went into his office and studied the Waldorf collection of 5,000 photographs. These show faces of confidence persons, hotel thieves and international crooks, and Joe has been 20 years in assembling them. He also looked over the imposing finger-print art gallery of the hotel secret service, consisting largely of interesting duplicates from the police headquarters of the metropolises.

Kitty was there, and so was Harry. A few hours later a captain of waiters removed from the table at which the confederates were dining a set of glasses of which they had just time to take one sip. He used gloves.

The glasses were soon in Joe Smith's studio. They were dusted with a prepared powder and photographed. Joe smiled.

That afternoon Joe, who is a polished gentleman in appearance as well as in reality, strolled up Peacock alley and met Kitty of the $150 Paris hat.

"Madam," said the Scotland Yard man, quietly, "the management would like to know your precise business in this hotel?"

"What have you got on me?" she replied, descending to the vernacular.

"A photograph and two fine sets of finger prints."

Peacock alley had had its annual spring cleaning.

They were sorely nettled at being prevented from consummating a plot to sell stock in an imaginary gold mine for $10,000.

A week previous one of the Smith women agents, passing herself as a shopper who took tea in the Waldorf frequently, observed Kitty, "Lord Harry" and three others, two women and a man, very active in entertaining a wealthy patron. They had the plot so far along that the victim was about to consult a "lawyer." She satisfied herself that the lawyer the wealthy patron would consult (of his own volition, as he thought) would be a confederate of "Lord Harry," he of the mauve spats and English walking suit and the elegantly gowned Kitty.

Joe went into his office and studied the Waldorf collection of 5,000 photographs. These show faces of confidence persons, hotel thieves and international crooks, and Joe has been 20 years in assembling them. He also looked over the imposing finger-print art gallery of the hotel secret service, consisting largely of interesting duplicates from the police headquarters of the metropolises.

Kitty was there, and so was Harry. A few hours later a captain of waiters removed from the table at which the confederates were dining a set of glasses of which they had just time to take one sip. He used gloves.

The glasses were soon in Joe Smith's studio. They were dusted with a prepared powder and photographed. Joe smiled.

That afternoon Joe, who is a polished gentleman in appearance as well as in reality, strolled up Peacock alley and met Kitty of the $150 Paris hat.

"Madam," said the Scotland Yard man, quietly, "the management would like to know your precise business in this hotel?"

"What have you got on me?" she replied, descending to the vernacular.

"A photograph and two fine sets of finger prints."

Peacock alley had had its annual spring cleaning.

They were sorely nettled at being prevented from consummating a plot to sell stock in an imaginary gold mine for $10,000.

A week previous one of the Smith women agents, passing herself as a shopper who took tea in the Waldorf frequently, observed Kitty, "Lord Harry" and three others, two women and a man, very active in entertaining a wealthy patron. They had the plot so far along that the victim was about to consult a "lawyer." She satisfied herself that the lawyer the wealthy patron would consult (of his own volition, as he thought) would be a confederate of "Lord Harry," he of the mauve spats and English walking suit and the elegantly gowned Kitty.

Joe went into his office and studied the Waldorf collection of 5,000 photographs. These show faces of confidence persons, hotel thieves and international crooks, and Joe has been 20 years in assembling them. He also looked over the imposing finger-print art gallery of the hotel secret service, consisting largely of interesting duplicates from the police headquarters of the metropolises.

Kitty was there, and so was Harry. A few hours later a captain of waiters removed from the table at which the confederates were dining a set of glasses of which they had just time to take one sip. He used gloves.

The glasses were soon in Joe Smith's studio. They were dusted with a prepared powder and photographed. Joe smiled.

That afternoon Joe, who is a polished gentleman in appearance as well as in reality, strolled up Peacock alley and met Kitty of the $150 Paris hat.

"Madam," said the Scotland Yard man, quietly, "the management would like to know your precise business in this hotel?"

"What have you got on me?" she replied, descending to the vernacular.

"A photograph and two fine sets of finger prints."

Peacock alley had had its annual spring cleaning.

They were sorely nettled at being prevented from consummating a plot to sell stock in an imaginary gold mine for $10,000.

A week previous one of the Smith women agents, passing herself as a shopper who took tea in the Waldorf frequently, observed Kitty, "Lord Harry" and three others, two women and a man, very active in entertaining a wealthy patron. They had the plot so far along that the victim was about to consult a "lawyer." She satisfied herself that the lawyer the wealthy patron would consult (of his own volition, as he thought) would be a confederate of "Lord Harry," he of the mauve spats and English walking suit and the elegantly gowned Kitty.

Joe went into his office and studied the Waldorf collection of 5,000 photographs. These show faces of confidence persons, hotel thieves and international crooks, and Joe has been 20 years in assembling them. He also looked over the imposing finger-print art gallery of the hotel secret service, consisting largely of interesting duplicates from the police headquarters of the metropolises.

Kitty was there, and so was Harry. A few hours later a captain of waiters removed from the table at which the confederates were dining a set of glasses of which they had just time to take one sip. He used gloves.

The glasses were soon in Joe Smith's studio. They were dusted with a prepared powder and photographed. Joe smiled.

That afternoon Joe, who is a polished gentleman in appearance as well as in reality, strolled up Peacock alley and met Kitty of the $150 Paris hat.

"Madam," said the Scotland Yard man, quietly, "the management would like to know your precise business in this hotel?"

"What have you got on me?" she replied, descending to the vernacular.

"A photograph and two fine sets of finger prints."

Peacock alley had had its annual spring cleaning.

They were sorely nettled at being prevented from consummating a plot to sell stock in an imaginary gold mine for $10,000.

A week previous one of the Smith women agents, passing herself as a shopper who took tea in the Waldorf frequently, observed Kitty, "Lord Harry" and three others, two women and a man, very active in entertaining a wealthy patron. They had the plot so far along that the victim was about to consult a "lawyer." She satisfied herself that the lawyer the wealthy patron would consult (of his own volition, as he thought) would be a confederate of "Lord Harry," he of the mauve spats and English walking suit and the elegantly gowned Kitty.

Joe went into his office and studied the Waldorf collection of 5,000 photographs. These show faces of confidence persons, hotel thieves and international crooks, and Joe has been 20 years in assembling them. He also looked over the imposing finger-print art gallery of the hotel secret service, consisting largely of interesting duplicates from the police headquarters of the metropolises.

Kitty was there, and so was Harry. A few hours later a captain of waiters removed from the table at which the confederates were dining a set of glasses of which they had just time to take one sip. He used gloves.

The glasses were soon in Joe Smith's studio. They were dusted with a prepared powder and photographed. Joe smiled.

That afternoon Joe, who is a polished gentleman in appearance as well as in reality, strolled up Peacock alley and met Kitty of the $150 Paris hat.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SKELLERS, Director of Events Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR MAY 10 THE UNJUST STEWARD.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 16:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—"He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much; and he that is unfaithful in a very little is unfaithful also in much." Luke 16:10.

Again in one chapter (and here only) we have before us two of the Master's more famous parables, the unjust steward and the rich man and Lazarus. Both are parables of warning against the common sins of hypocrisy and gluttony. Luke links this teaching with the events in connection with our Lord's teaching about the lost things. There is clearly a close connection. The parable of the lost things was spoken directly to the Pharisees and scribes, that now before us to the disciples. The failure of the Pharisees as stewards of the things of God, the divine law, calls for Jesus, for those gathered as his disciples, teaching that will prepare them to fulfill perfectly the stewardship responsibilities. The story is both positive and negative, is direct against covetousness, and its main purpose to us is how to use money, while we have it, so that it may bring us a recompense in the eternal world when it is gone (v. 9).

Immoral Acts Not Approved.

I. The Unrighteous Steward, vv. 1-3. Our Lord does not, of course, intend that this steward is to be our pattern in every respect. He is taking a "son of the world" (v. 8, R. V.) and showing us that, in the use of money entrusted to his care, he is making provision for the future. He is preparing himself against the time when his stewardship is taken from him. How much more shall a "son of the light" be shrewd, so to use the money entrusted to his stewardship, that when it is taken from him, he has provided for the future. The record does not imply that Jesus approved of the man's immoral actions. He is using the example of an unrighteous steward as a contrast to show how much more is to be expected from God or godly men, Luke 18:6, 7; 11:5-8; Matt. 12:11, 12. Recognizing these facts, the story is perfectly simple and straightforward. The dishonest "son of his age" has a wrong method, though his motive from this point of view is a wise and prudent one, clever in our modern use of that word. This does not condone his fraud, nor does our Lord commend him. The contrast is established in the parable between men wholly of their age, and men, professedly, at least, sons of light. In their dealings with eternal things they had not shown the same astuteness as the former. Luke 15 deals with the heartless contempt of the Pharisees for those who are lost, while the parables of this chapter deal with stewardship—faithfulness (1 Cor. 5:2), and as such should come home to the hearts of us all. All we call ours belongs to him, Hag. 2:8; Ps. 10:10. The accusation against this steward can be brought against many of God's stewards. Some stewards waste in sin, in luxury, or by non-use, v. 1, cf. Luke 15:13, 30; 16:19; 19:20. There was a two-fold result (1) he was called to an accounting v. 2, and (2) his stewardship was taken from him (v. 3). Such also is the "prospect of all of God's stewards, for we must 'all give an account of himself,' Rom. 14:12; II Cor. 5:10.

On Higher Level.

II. The Use of Money, vv. 9-13. The value of this parable is in the actual teaching of Jesus which follows the parable. That is introductory, emphasizing the need for wisdom on the part of all stewards. After that we are on a higher level and in a clearer atmosphere. Unrighteous mammon means money, and to make friends "by means of the mammon of unrighteousness" (R. V.) is so to use our money for the godly poor as to win their love and that they may receive us into the eternal tabernacles to which they shall go, see Matt. 19:21; 25:33-40; 6:19; 1 Tim. 6:17-19; Prov. 19:17. As has been said, Jesus does not commend this steward for his wrong use of his master's money, but the steward of God has the right to bestow his Master's goods upon the needy, as that is the very reason they have been bestowed upon him entrusted to his care. Matt. 24:45; I Pet. 4:10. Our entrance into the kingdom will be more abundant because of our liberality with God's money, Matt. 19:21. This does not preclude faith, but rather, real faith wrought by love, Gal. 5:6. James 2:18 (R. V.), and we cannot serve "two masters." This story moves within the realm of material wealth, e. g., of mammon. It illustrates the higher wisdom of how mammon is to be used by the stewards of the kingdom of God. Verses 15 and 16 of this chapter reveal to us our Lord's reason for such an illustration. It was directed against the covetous and false stewards, the Pharisees, who "sifted at him because they were lovers of money." We are to use money so as to make friends, not friends for this present life, but for that life which lies beyond the grave. Stewardship principles are always the same, no matter what the amount, "he that is unrighteous in a very little is unrighteous also in much." This argument is followed by two questions. The answer to the first is that no one ever commits the stewardship of spiritual things to those who are unfaithful in material things. A man shows by his faithfulness in material things whether he is to be entrusted with spiritual stewardship. The second question is answered in that man do not give that which is their own, those who have not been faithful

WHEN WOMAN DISPOSES

By GRANT OWEN.

Peter Knox folded up the papers and the memoranda and returned them to the long leather lettercase. He cleared his throat. He seemed to find what he was trying to say particularly difficult.

"I have made it plain, have I?" he asked of the girl beside him, who was staring thoughtfully at the fire.

"Oh, yes, Peter," said she. "I haven't anything. That's it, isn't it?"

He nodded, rather wretchedly. "No one had any idea things were so badly involved," said he. "I knew your father was rather troubled for some time before his death, but I hadn't the least idea that things were as bad as they are. If you could only keep the house here—"

She smiled up at him bravely.

"Good old Peter," said she, patting his hand. "Don't worry. I have my two hands and a beautiful inclination to face the world and—"

Peter squirmed in his chair. His brows puckered. Twice he opened his lips before he spoke.

"Oh, you mustn't think of that," he demurred.

"Of what?" she asked.

"Of facing the world alone."

He was a big young man, heavy of frame, slow of speech, and one judged from his rather heavy features—and judged rightly—somewhat slow of mind, you know at a glance Peter Knox was one of those rare souls whom it is eminently safe to trust implicitly.

"Why, Peter," Rose Clavering demurred, "what's the sense of talking that way after what you've just told me? I'll have to face the world alone. Anyway, I'm not a bit afraid."

"You won't," said Peter. "Look, Rose, I've got heaps and heaps of money. Marry me."

"Oh, Peter, please—not that!" said she.

She fancied Peter looked very much relieved. Peter was thinking he didn't blame her.

"You couldn't think of it, then?" said he a little wistfully.

"Why, of course not, Peter," said she. "You're awfully good and dear—"

"Well, don't tell me you'll be a sister to me, anyway," said he with a forced grin, striving to make the best of a bad matter. "Then maybe sometime in the future I'll have a show."

So they talked a little more about the matter of Rose's father's depleted estate and then Peter took his departure.

Two full years drifted past before she realized it, and Rose was beginning to look thoughtfully in the mirror now and then and wonder what those deepening lines about her mouth foreboded; also she thought much of Peter. If Peter had only really cared a little.

Then came the word that Peter had lost all his money. His big, foolish, soft heart had, of course, been responsible. No one seemed to know where Peter was. He had disappeared.

Then one day as Rose was crossing a little park-like enclosure in the center of a square, she caught sight of Peter on one of the benches—a shabby, rather tattered looking Peter. With a little cry she sped to that particular bench.

Peter looked very much embarrassed.

"Oh, Peter!" cried Rose. "I'm so glad to see you! Where on earth have you been?"

"Hiding from creditors mostly," said Peter with a sickly grin, "and trying to get a job between times. Rose, how lovely you look!"

"You poor, soft-hearted boy," said she, sitting down beside him.

Peter looked at her, still worshipfully.

"You prosper, don't you?" said he. "That's what comes of having brains. I've heard all about you and what you're doing. I've followed your work and your success very joyfully. Aren't you the howling rage just now, though?"

"Oh, I've done pretty well," she said modestly. "I've got quite a bit put by for a rainy day, Peter," she broke out impetuously, "you must let me help you. Let me stake you—let me that what they call it?—until you get on your feet again."

"I am pretty much of a mess, that's a fact," said he. "But I'm not that far gone yet, Rose. Why, I couldn't possibly—"

"There are no strings to it," she laughed. "I won't ask you to marry me."

"Good heavens! I didn't think you would," said he. "And speaking of that, aren't you the lucky little girl that you didn't let my wealth blind your better judgment, when I did ask you to marry me?"

"No," she said very firmly. "I wasn't a bit lucky. I've been lonesome, Peter; horribly lonesome—for you."

"Then why—that time I asked you—"

"Oh, Peter, Peter, I thought you did it just out of pity, because I'd got to face the world alone. I didn't realize—oh, anything—till you looked at me today the way you did. I've missed you so dreadfully! I dare you to ask me again to marry you!"

Peter looked dazed.

"I'm busted—flat," he demurred.

"I'm not," said she. "Go ahead. Ask me. I dare you!"

She smiled at him. Peter's heart did three distinct flip-flops.

"You've got to marry me, Rose!" he said hoarsely.

"Of course, I shall marry you," said she. "There! Now I've accepted you. You can't back out, Peter."

Sure Method.

Miss Young (to old conductor)—How ever did people get along when the street cars were unheated?

Old Conductor—Well, miss, we had one sure way of signing the all due respect to you. The women folks always decide on the house plan; and perhaps this is all right, for they are always at home except on Ladies' Aid society and Sewing circle days, and some men are apt to be home only when they can go nowhere else.

It may be, though, that the attractive porch and the living room of this house may make him stay at home. The porch is 18 feet long, and 3 feet 6 inches wide, large enough to accommodate quite a company of neighbors on summer evenings, provided there are no quarrels on. The house is 24 feet square. The living room is 14 feet long, and 11 feet 6 inches wide. The dining room back is 12 feet long and 11 feet wide. In both of these rooms—11 ceilings can be provided to go to the

IDEAS for HOME BUILDERS BY WM. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

This is the era of the inexpensive house. From present indications more houses of this character will be built during the coming season than during any similar period for many years. This fact goes to prove that the home-owning instinct will survive any condition of higher prices for building materials.

It is natural to live in one's own home; it is unnatural to live in a rented house or apartment. The family that lives in its own house, no matter how humble that may be, feels a sense of independence that does not come to the family in a rented house.

The renter feels, if he does not say it, after paying his rent: "Well, I have a place and a roof for my family for 30 days more. I must leave after that if I do not pay. And even during these 30 days we only have the use of the house; it is not ours, but must be turned over to the owner when we are through with it."

But the man or woman who has a little house built from careful saving has none of these feelings. There is a sense of security, of ownership, of permanence, that makes life happier for them.

The security of the race lies in the home instinct, and it is a backward step every time it is stultified. Your children have a right to a home of their own. You often hear people say: "It costs more to own a home than it does to pay rent." This is not true; but even if it were true, the argument still would be on the side of owning your home for your children's sake.

The expense of keeping a house in repair is not great, providing the dwelling is not allowed to run down. The greatest danger comes from neglecting the matter of painting. Most people regard the paint matter purely on the grounds of appearance. So long as the house "looks" fairly well, no thought is given to paint. But did you ever stop to think that the appearance part of the paint problem is the least important? It is the preservative quality of the paint that is most vital, and the appearance is a secondary consideration. Of course, it is desirable to have the house look fine; but this is incidental, not the main office of paint.

But this is neither here nor there. If you are a working man and want to build a home, here is a design that may appeal to you and your wife. Perhaps we should have mentioned her first, for you will build the house she wants; and what your tastes are in the matter makes little difference—with one will not, for that, find him any less likable. Some day he will rediscover the Dantesque hierarchy of souls implicit in humanity. And then, perhaps, he will get back his charm.—Katherine F. Gerould, in the Atlantic.

Saved by Audacity.

Youthful nerve trained to legal curves frequently rasps the cuticle of judicial dignity and gets away with it. Out in San Francisco the other day the court remarked to a legal freshie: "I have been informed that you have been going around the city criticizing the way in which I conduct the business of this department. I hear you have been maligning me generally and telling people that I am becoming incompetent. What say you?" Instantly and without the flicker of an eyelash the youngster replied: "Your honor is correctly informed." Court-house veterans, made speechless by the exhibition, mutely waited for the roof to fall in. Nothing doing. The judge reddened, swallowed the dose and went on with the grind.

The Secret.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish is known to give the most sumptuous and the most beautiful dinners in the world. She is also known as the possessor of a trenchant wit.

It is said of Mrs. Fish that the remarkable success of a rich but ill-favored New York girl's marriage with a spendthrift nobleman was recently discussed in her presence. No one could understand the happiness of this marriage, which had seemed to bode so ill. But Mrs. Fish shrugged and said:

"The girl won't let her husband touch a penny of her principal, and that, you see, keeps up the interest."

Tommy's Soft Answer.

"You have been fighting again, Tommy!" "I couldn't help it, mamma. That Stapleford boy sassed me." "That was no reason for fighting. You should have remembered that a soft answer turneth away wrath" and given him a soft answer." "I did. I hit him with a chunk o' mud."

Appeal for Sympathy.

"This penitentiary is not properly heated," said the prisoner.

Warden.

Second Floor Plan.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

CL. BED RM. 8'6"X11'0" BATH 7'0"X5'6" HALL CL. BED RM. 16'0"X11'6" CL.

In the Game

We're in to win—
There is the greatest care taken in the production of our clothes for our Boys' Department—
The Tailoring is of not alone conscientious effort but worked with a skill born of knack and practice.
Let your boy try on a suit of our GUARANTEED CLOTHES and you will readily see their superiority—and the reason for it as explained in Tailoring—which is just as fine as found in the best made Men's Clothes—
Efficiency and volume permit of economical pricing.

Geo. H. Frank & Co.
Maysville's Foremost Clothiers.

PUBLIC LEADER

PERSONAL

Mrs. Oscar Grigsby left today for Midway to join her husband.

Mrs. John Connell of Paris is visiting her sister, Mrs. Daniel Drennan, in Maysville.

Mrs. Geo. B. Brown and little son, Theodore are here from Paducah for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wallingford.

TEN NURSES

Listed For Selection By Governor of State Examiners—Board Will Hold Examinations and Register The Fit.

Nominations were made at the meeting of the Kentucky State Association of Graduate Nurses at Louisville of ten nurses from whose number Gov. McCreary will select five to serve as the "State Board of Nurse Examiners" provided in an act of the last Legislature. This list of nominees is only tentative, it was stated, and is to be confirmed at the meeting this morning.

The names are Misses Mary Alexander, Louisville; Elizabeth Robertson, Louisville; Sarah Dock, Paducah; Emma Ahling, Louisville; Harriett Cleek, Lexington; Flora Keene, Frankfort; Sophia Steinhauer, Dayton; Alice Gages, Louisville; Mrs. Minnie Crawford, Harlan County, and Mrs. Ella Green Davis, Owensboro.

Duties of the board will be to register all trained nurses, hold examinations at least once a year for applicants for registration and to prosecute anyone who attempts to practice nursing in the State without a certificate of registration.

"The Trained Nurse, an Indispensable Factor in the Crusade for the Betterment of Public Health," was the a visiting nurse under auspices of the subject of a paper by Miss Emma Hunt, Kentucky Anti-tuberculosis Association. She described a great field of work opening up in public health lines for trained nurses, such as in going into counties and stirring up the people by uncovering conditions that the "home folks" did not know existed. Her work she said, was to educate the people to be sanitary and help to blot out the preventable diseases, of which she said tuberculosis was one of the most dangerous. She said that clean-up days were planned, medical inspection of school children obtained, lectures given and clubs of various kinds organized.

Miss Hunt related how she spoke from the wagon of a patent medicine man and how at another time she succeeded in saving the sight of a boy who was trying to cure trachoma with a fake sight restorer.

"We can no longer confine ourselves to the four walls of the sickroom," said Miss Hunt, "or the sheltered wall of a hospital, depending on others to lead. The voice of duty is calling the trained nurse to do her share in the rural districts of the State and nation."

CHURCH NOTES.

Washington Presbyterian Church. Regular services Sunday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock. Everybody made welcome.

Second M. E. Church South. Preaching at 10:45 and 7 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Simpson. Sunday School at 9:30. James Dawson, Supt. Epworth League at 6:15. J. W. SIMPSON, Pastor.

Forest Avenue M. E. Church. Class meeting at 10:45 a. m. and preaching at the evening service. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. George M. Harding, Supt.

First M. E. Church South. Rev. M. S. Clark, pastor. Preaching at 10:45 and 7:30 by the pastor. Sunday School at 9:30. W. W. Ball, Supt. Epworth League at 6:30 o'clock. M. S. CLARK, Pastor.

St. Patrick Church. The winter schedule of services at the St. Patrick Church is as follows: First Mass—8 a. m. Sunday School immediately follows this service. Second Mass—10 a. m. Vespers, followed by benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament—3 p. m. The sermon at both Masses will be on the Gospel assigned by the Church for the day.

First Presbyterian Church. Preaching by pastor at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Morning subject: "The Modern Mother and Her Problems." Evening—Lecture on the Status of Woman in O. T. Times. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p. m. All made welcome. J. BARBOUR, Pastor.

Central Presbyterian Church. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. J. B. Wood, Supt. Preaching at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p. m. Special music. Everybody cordially invited. The church has been very handsomely decorated and repaired and is completed for Sunday service. R. L. BENN, Pastor.

Third Street M. E. Church. There will be the usual services tomorrow. The pastor will preach at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Special music at both services. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. I. M. Lane, Supt. Don't forget our fine Sunday School, make a special effort to be there. Epworth League at 6:30 p. m., led by Miss Florence Fitt.

All services will be held in the main auditorium. The Sunday School room will be ready to use next week, and will be a joy to meet in after receiving a new dress of paint.

One week from tomorrow will be the Epworth League Silver Jubilee Anniversary. Rev. Ernest C. Wareing of Cincinnati will be the preacher for the occasion. Great preparations are being made for the occasion. Remember all the services and come. Strangers will be very welcome. J. M. LITERAL, Pastor.

Business vs. Religion. The Sunday School lesson tomorrow is the parable of the unjust Stewart and is considered one of the most difficult in the Bible. All persons should hear it explained.

However, the heart of the lesson is that men should put as much energy and thought in their religion as the business world puts into its money making schemes. There are men in Maysville, who can arise early and stay up late in their efforts to add to their wealth, but who go snailing along in their religious efforts. From the way they put zeal into their business, you would think they only had a few years in which to make a fortune but you would conclude from the slow way they go at their religious development that they would out-live Methuselah. If these men would go into some Sunday School here in Mason County tomorrow, they would learn that Jesus

"Mother was a beauty in her younger days." Mother may smile deprecatingly—but watch her go to the little top drawer and take out the precious photograph "taken before I was married." Chances are she will also tell you of her admirers, and we can believe they were many. What a priceless record of her younger charms that photograph is to mother, and to you. Modern photography can do infinitely more to preserve the records of years.

Brosee

The Photographer in Your Town.

EDWIN MATTHEWS
DENTIST.
Suite 4, First National Bank Building.
MAYSVILLE, KY.
Local and Long (Office No. 555.
Distance Phone Residence No. 127

commends the person who gives first attention to spiritual and religious things. Jesus expects us to put business into our religion and religious zeal into our business.

First Baptist Church. Last Sunday was one of the really great days in our Sunday School; our entire enrollment was present and a glorious record was made. We are exceedingly anxious to keep up our splendid start toward progress—so we cordially invite our visitors to return and urge every member of church and Sunday School, to be present tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m. "The Antitheses of the Betrayal" will be Rev. Wilhoite's morning sermon, after which there will be baptismal services. By request, the pastor will preach at the 7:30 hour on "The Mill Will Never Grind with the Water That Has Passed." Since it is water's day, the sermon will include an appropriate message on "Motherhood." The entire chorus is expected to sing a both services, so good music is assured. The B. Y. P. U. service will begin at 6:30 p. m. If you received a blessing by attending our services, on last Sunday, why not attend tomorrow? A welcome and help for all. H. B. WILHOYTE, Pastor.

Christian Church. We look for a large attendance in the Bible School at 9:30. We urge those who visited us last Sunday to come again. We especially ask the men to help Maysville beat Flemingsburg. Then it is Mother's Day so in her honor all should come. A special invitation has been given to the Cradle Roll mothers to come. A committee will care for the children. Church service at 10:45 and 7:30. Mother's Day songs will be sung.

PROGRAM. Opening Sentences. (Congregation.) Gloria Patri. Invocation. Hymn—"Safely Through Another Week." Scripture. Solo and Chorus—"Where I Meet with Thee." Prayer. Hymn 132—"When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Communion and Lord's Prayer. Special—"My Mother's Bible." Sermon. Special Songs—"Nobody Knows But Mother;" and "My Mother's God." In the evening the following songs will be sung as solos—"Angels Bear the News to Mother," and "An Old Fashioned Photograph," besides the anthem "My Heavenly Home"—Line. Sermon—Seeing and Doing. Endeavor at 6:30. We cordially invite the public to attend the services of this church. A. F. STAHL, Minister.

Mrs. A. F. Felts and little son, Raymond, left yesterday afternoon for a visit in Ashland, Ky. From there they will go to Grayson, Ky., where they will visit Mrs. Felts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Canterbury.

WEATHER REPORT

FORECAST FOR KENTUCKY—FAIR AND WARMER TODAY AND SUNDAY.

MAYSVILLE PRODUCE MARKET

Following are this morning's quotations on country produce, telephoned at 9 o'clock by the E. L. Manchester Produce Company:

Eggs ..... 17c
Butter ..... 14c
Ducks ..... 8c
Old Hens ..... 13c
Spring chickens ..... 13c
Old roosters ..... 7c
Geese ..... 9c
Turkeys ..... 15c

CINCINNATI MARKETS

Grain. Cincinnati, May 8.—Wheat steady 99c@1.00; corn steady, 72c@73c; oats steady, 40c@40½c; rye steady, 62½c@63½c.

Live Stock. Hog receipts 3700; market steady at $4.50@4.55. Cattle receipts 800; market steady at $5.75@5.80.

James S. Dawson & Co.
Are in the Brick and Concrete Business. Fully prepared to do all kinds of brick and concrete work in the most substantial and artistic manner. Concrete blocks a specialty. Prices Reasonable. Estimates invited. Phone 170.

FOR SALE AN ESTABLISHED BUSINESS FOR SALE

The business of the Ohio River Lumber Co. is offered for sale at a price that will make it worth while for someone. The entire plant, consisting of buildings, machinery and stock can be purchased, or the stock and machinery can be purchased and the real estate rented. In the meantime the price on all stock has been cut to wholesale car load basis. It will pay you to find out if we have what you want. Please do not ask us to charge anything. If you owe us please call and settle.

OHIO RIVER LUMBER CO.,
UNION STREET.

Opening Program at The Pastime Theater This Afternoon and Evening

FLORENCE LAWRENCE IN
"THE ROMANCE OF PHOTOGRAPHY"
Victor Drama.

"CUPID'S CLOSE SHAVE"
Nestor Comedy.

"THEM OL' LETTERS"
Universal.

BASEBALL RESULTS

GAMES TODAY.
Ohio State League.
Chillicothe at Lexington.
Portsmouth at Huntington.
Ironton at Charleston.
Maysville at Newport.

National League.
Boston at New York.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
Chicago at Pittsburgh.
Cincinnati at St. Louis.

American League.
Philadelphia at Washington.
New York at Boston.
St. Louis at Cleveland.
Detroit at Chicago.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES.
Ohio State League.
Lexington-Chillicothe, wet ground.
Newport-Maysville, wet ground.
Huntington-Portsmouth, wet ground.
Charleston, 2; Ironton, 1.

National League.
Chicago-Pittsburgh, wet ground.
Boston-New York, rain.
Brooklyn-Philadelphia, rain.
Cincinnati, 3; St. Louis, 2.

American League.
Detroit, 10; Chicago, 8.
New York, 3; Boston, 0.
Philadelphia, 9; Washington, 9.
No other game scheduled.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

Ohio State League.
Won Lost P. C.
Chillicothe ..... 7 2 .778
Huntington ..... 6 4 .600
Newport ..... 4 3 .571
Ironton ..... 5 4 .556
Charleston ..... 4 5 .444
Portsmouth ..... 2 4 .333
Maysville ..... 2 5 .286
Lexington ..... 2 5 .286

National League.
Won Lost P. C.
Pittsburgh ..... 15 2 .882
Philadelphia ..... 8 5 .615
Brooklyn ..... 8 5 .6
New York ..... 7 6 .538
Cincinnati ..... 9 10 .474
St. Louis ..... 8 13 .381
Chicago ..... 6 13 .316
Boston ..... 3 10 .231

American League.
Won Lost P. C.
Detroit ..... 15 4 .714
St. Louis ..... 11 8 .579
New York ..... 9 7 .563
Washington ..... 9 9 .500
Chicago ..... 9 12 .429
Boston ..... 6 10 .375
Cleveland ..... 5 14 .263

It rained nearly all day yesterday and it was a misty, measly, miserable piece of weather.

Among those paroled by the State Board of Prison Commissioners Thursday was Fannie Washington of this city who was sent up for manslaughter.

The Lexington-Chillicothe opening game yesterday was canceled on account of the rain.

Mr. William Ryan, the popular L. & N. freight conductor on the Maysville Division, left yesterday for New York City with his wife on a several weeks' pleasure trip.

All is quiet in the Colorado coal mining fields.

Our Colored Citizens.

There will be a supper given tonight at the home of Mrs. Mary Blackman. All are requested to be present.

Bethel Baptist Church. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Sunday is our annual rally day for the church, and all are invited to come and help us in this great effort. Dr. Haygood, pastor of Scott's Chapel M. E. Church, will preach at 3 p. m., and his congregation is invited to be present. Dinner at 2 o'clock.

FOUND. A pile of clothing on the street at the home of D.

Spring House Cleaning Time Is Here

You will want a Rug, some Curtains, Mattings, Linoleums, Oil Cloths, Shades, Etc. We have a very large stock.

Our Rugs at $10.00, $11.98, $15.00 and $20.00 are incomparable in style and quality at each price. Many exclusive patterns. Different from the everyday, everywhere kinds. We sell the famous Crex Mattings and Rugs, there are many substitutes, but none so good as the real Crex.

The stock of Curtain goods is unsurpassed from 10 cents a yard up.

New spring goods arriving daily—Crepes, Voiles, Flouncings, Shadow Laces, Etc., in attractive patterns and at prices unequalled and styles exclusive.

We keep the best brands of Hosiery, Gloves and Underwear that is on the market. Try them and you will be pleased. Get your child some cool athletic union suits—25c.

ROBERT L. HOEFELICH
211 and 213 MARKET STREET.

3% INTEREST

By starting a savings account with this Trust Company with ONE DOLLAR and depositing one dollar each week, the following table shows you what you will have to your credit at the end of each year, including our payment of 3% compound interest.

1st .....	$ 52.77	11th .....	$ 675.35
2nd .....	106.99	12th .....	748.46
3rd .....	162.86	13th .....	823.79
4th .....	220.38	14th .....	901.33
5th .....	279.70	15th .....	981.27
6th .....	340.80	16th .....	1063.61
7th .....	403.87	17th .....	1148.44
8th .....	468.78	18th .....	1235.81
9th .....	535.02	19th .....	1325.88
10th .....	604.48	20th .....	1418.65

UNION TRUST & SAVINGS CO.,
MAYSVILLE, KY.

Globe Stamps With All Cash Purchases

From this day on we shall give the good old Globe Stamps with all cash purchases, and with all accounts paid by the week. We shall continue to give you the BEST GROCERIES AT THE LOWEST PRICES IN MAYSVILLE. It pays to trade with

J. C. CABLISH & BRO.
Quality Grocers.
Phone 230.

COUGHLIN & CO.
Livery, Feed and Sales Stable
Undertakers, Automobiles for Hire.
Phone 31.

Hold It Up To Praise

as you certainly must, after sampling our exceptionally fine Rye Whisky. Every connoisseur of good, pure and wholesome Rye makes this brand his favorite after the first trial, because it pleases his palate and never gives him a headache. We are soliciting family trade and know that every house should have a bottle of this Rye in case of emergency.

O. H. P. Thomas & Co.,
120-122 Market Street,
MAYSVILLE, - - - KENTUCKY.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

We have remodeled our place of business at 119 East Third street, have installed a showroom and it is our intention to carry a complete line of Heating Appliances, Fans, Electrical Supplies and also a Fixture display. In fact, we will be able to furnish you anything and everything you need Electrical and while our line is not yet complete the goods are arriving fast and we invite you to call and see us. You might find something now that you need and we think your visit will be interesting and instructive, so pay us a visit at our place under the new name of

Electric Shop, G. A. HILL & BRO., Prop.

TO THE Young Men and Boys

We wish to say a few words on a very important subject to them. Young men want smart, lively, young styles, something smart and distinctive in pattern, color and cut. All this you get when you deal at the "Good Clothes Man's" Store and in addition you get sterling quality in the goods which gives the Young man the service and economy of wear he ought to get. Before you buy any Clothing or Shoes see Ours.

J. W. LEE.

FOUND. A pile of clothing on the street at the home of D.

The best car for its price—and none better at any price. That's what we claim for the Ford. And more than four hundred and fifty thousand Fords in world-wide service bear out our contention. Buy yours today.

Here is the price of the Ford runabout: five fifty; electric self-starter $10.00; b. Detroit, com. and parts.